

Use Case: Medical Technology

Maximize Staff Availability with Actsoft

A company specializing in medical devices and other types of high-tech patient care options.

Challenges

A medical tech company had concerns regarding their operational efficiency and the personal accountability of field service technicians. Customer service suffered when a field service member did not arrive on time or didn't stop at a scheduled location. They required a GPS Tracking solution that was able to verify an employee's location. Training operations and end user functionality were also a large concern; the company wanted a solution that was easy to use and implement.

Solution

Actsoft solved many of their operational challenges. They used it throughout several different departments to ensure maximum employee productivity.

Benefits

The company's human resources manager was able to easily train her team on the Actsoft solution. Owning the data (secured behind the company's firewall) is extremely beneficial to their department. Managers are able to pull history reports, which they use in annual reviews, disciplinary reports, and overall compensation considerations. Using historical reports in Actsoft allows them to improve time management. They're able to see how many jobs each of their employees regularly complete and identify new ways to maximize their availabilities.
